

2000 CALFED Science Conference Session Notes

Introduction and Disclaimer

At the request of the Science Conference Steering Committee, each of the sessions Chairs selected knowledgeable individuals to take notes during the oral presentations. The notes provided here highlight some of the key points and valuable lessons that were gleaned from each of the presentations, as well as from the authors' abstracts.

The notes have been reviewed by the session Chairs. It should be understood, however, that the notes reflect the interpretations of the notetakers. They are made available here only to provide the interested reader with information that supplements the submitted abstracts, the presentations themselves, and other reports published by the authors. These notes should not be cited without consulting the appropriate lead authors. Author names, affiliations, and email addresses are found in the abstracts.
